

Message from the Investment Manager

Dear Shareholders,

We are pleased to present the quarterly report for the VinaCapital Vietnam Opportunity Fund Limited (VOF), VinaLand Limited (VNL) and Vietnam Infrastructure Limited (VNI) for the three-month period ending 31 December 2010.

The FY2010 annual accounts for the funds were released during the last quarter, and are available on our website at the links below:

VOF final results June 2010

VNL final results June 2010

VNI final results June 2010

VinaCapital in January opened a subsidiary office in Cambodia, VictoryCapital, to begin more actively exploring investment opportunities there. We will keep our shareholders informed of any new investments in Cambodia, a country with exciting prospects, particularly in hospitality, real estate and infrastructure – areas that may potentially involve all three of our AIM funds.

For the quarter ending 31 December 2010, VOF's NAV rose to USD778 million, or USD2.40 per share, compared to USD769 million at the end of September 2010. The share price over the quarter rose 19.7 percent, to USD1.88 from USD1.57 at the end of September. The increase in the fund's NAV is mostly accounted for by gains in the capital markets portfolio, including the exit from Vinacafe at an IRR of 45 percent over five years. In addition to acquiring the stake in Thai Hoa Group, the quarter saw VOF buy a stake in Binh Dien Fertiliser JSC.

After the quarter ended, VOF announced the sale of its equity stake in Hanoi Liquor JSC (Halico) to international drinks firm Diageo plc. The sale of the 23.6 percent stake in Halico for USD51.6 million, one of Vietnam's biggest ever private equity deals, resulted in a 5.3x gain over four years.

VNL's NAV was USD1.38 per share at the end of December, a gain of two cents per share over the 30 June 2010 audited result of USD1.36 per share. Over the second half of 2010, two rounds of revaluations resulted in an accrual of four cents per share, while management fees amounted to two cents per share, resulting in an aggregate H2 2010 gain of two cents. The share price has continued to recover over the past month, rising to USD0.99 at the end of December, from USD0.93 at the end of November.

VNI's NAV remained unchanged at USD0.59 per share at the end of December 2010. During early November trading, the share price rose to match its 52-week high of USD0.41 but finally closed December at USD0.37, only a slight increase from USD0.36 at the end of September.

VinaCapital will hold an investor conference call in February 2011, and will participate in the LCF Edmond de Rothschild Emerging Markets Funds Conference in early March. We hope to have the opportunity to speak with many of our shareholders over the coming months, to further update you on Vietnam's current investment climate and the prospects for our funds.

Vietnam begins the Year of the Cat (not Rabbit!) with great promise for increased economic stability and continued growth. We look forward to the new year.

Very truly yours,

Don Lam
 CEO
 VinaCapital Group

Market update

Capital markets and economy

The Vietnam Index gained 6.6 percent over Q4 2010, reaching a 52-week low of 420 points in mid-November before recovering in December to close the year at 485 points. For 2010, the VN Index lost 2.0 percent in VND terms (and 7.2 percent in USD terms). The capital markets performance in December was overshadowed by the Vinashin debt controversy, which threatens to greatly raise the cost of international debt for Vietnam. Foreign indirect investment (FII) into Vietnam's stock market lagged regional peers in 2010, despite the attractive trailing PE ratio that was under 10x for most of the year. The State Bank reported that FII into Vietnam's stock markets was USD800 million for the year through November, much less than neighbours Indonesia, Thailand and the Philippines.

Remittances up 25.6% to USD8.4bn

Nonetheless, foreign investors have remained net buyers in consecutive months since October 2009, for total net buying of USD765.3 million during that period. FII net inflows have played a small role in improving Vietnam's balance of payments. Overseas remittances are expected to be USD770 million in December, raising the total for 2010 to USD8.4 billion, up 25.6 percent from 2009. Along with ODA, Vietnam's inflows are enough to cover the trade deficit of USD12.4 billion. As the trade deficit is financeable, it should not further impact Vietnam's low foreign reserves (estimated by the IMF to be USD14.1 billion).

China continues to be the source of almost 25 percent of Vietnam's total imports, particularly as the source of raw materials, machinery and equipment used for production. The bilateral deficit with China in 2010 is expected to be 105 percent of the national deficit (ie. Vietnam is in a trade surplus without the China deficit). This is the first time the bilateral deficit has exceeded the national deficit, and is considered a problem given the risks of depending so heavily on one import market.

Textiles and garments take top export spot

Vietnam's export performance was generally positive in 2010, with hope for further gains in 2011. Export value rose 25.5 percent in 2010, with garments and textiles for the first time posting a yearly turnover of USD11 billion, for top spot on Vietnam's list of 26 major export goods. Seafood and footwear overtook crude oil for the second and third spots on the export list. Crude oil export turnover decreased by 20 percent to USD5 billion in 2010. Export turnover is expected to rise by 10 percent in 2011.

Vietnam's domestic economy in 2011 will be shaped largely by monetary policy, as the State Bank looks to control inflation, which reached 11.8 percent at year-end. Credit growth is forecast to increase by 23 percent, below the 27.7 percent seen in 2010. Including gains in the exchange rate and gold prices, loans jumped 29.8 percent in 2010, the State Bank reports. In 2011, the State Bank states on its website that it will manage monetary policy in a "cautious, proactive and flexible manner."

HCM City residential market slows; Hanoi heats up

Real estate market

Ho Chi Minh City saw new residential launches drop 50 percent in Q4 2010 over the previous quarter, as developers held back until Q1 2011 over concerns market demand would weaken in response to high interest rates, the rising gold price and increasing pressure on the Vietnam dong. Deals closed decreased 20 percent despite a 12 percent increase in the number of inquiries. Prices remained stable on the secondary market.

In Hanoi, secondary market asking prices rose, as the year-end is the most active home-buying season of the year. Over the quarter, Hanoi saw new launches totalling 3,790 units, nearly doubling the number launched in the previous quarter.

Retail market to add 126,000sq.m in 2011

Foreign retailers continue to enter the Vietnam market by partnering with local companies. FamilyMart opened four convenience stores in HCM City in this manner over the past year, and Japan's Takashimaya and Isetan Mitsukoshi are also considering expansion. With constant interest from overseas players, the retail market is expected to see continued supply shortages despite the expected completion of 126,000sq.m GFA of new retail space in 2011.

In HCM City, Q4 2010 saw vacant shopping centre space increase by 1.9 percent to 8.7 percent of total retail area. In the CBD, however, the shopping centre vacancy rate was 4.5 percent, a decrease of 1.3 percent from the previous quarter. The change was due to Vincom Center gradually filling and Zen Plaza reopening with 100 percent occupancy.

Bitexco adds to office market oversaturation

October 2010 saw the completion of Bitexco Financial Tower, at 68 storeys the highest building in Vietnam. The building releases 37,710sq.m of Grade A office space into an already oversaturated market, with the CBD's highest rental rates of USD48-58/sq.m/month. Together with the launch of three Grade B office buildings in the last quarter, it is no surprise that the total vacancy rate for all office grades rose to 17.5 percent, with average rental rates declining 2.4 percent quarter-on-quarter. It is a tenant's market and expected to remain that way for the medium term.

The hospitality market continued its recovery over Q4 2010, with year-on-year occupancy rising across all hotel grades. In HCM City, four-star hotels saw the highest average occupancy rate of 73.5 percent, due to the high level of service and room quality offered at more affordable prices than five-star competitors. The overall hospitality market saw 2010 RevPAR growth of 4.4 percent over 2009. The Hanoi market did particularly well due to the Thang Long-Hanoi Millennium Festival. The Grand Plaza Hanoi has been given a five-star designation after three months of operation. Tourism numbers should remain high during the lunar new year season in Q1 2011.

Performance update

The share price over the quarter rose 19.7 percent, to USD1.88 from USD1.57 at the end of September. The increase in the fund's NAV is mostly accounted for by gains in the capital markets portfolio. VOF over the quarter acquired stakes in Thai Hoa Group, an arabica coffee producer, and Binh Dien Fertiliser JSC.

VOF's top real estate holding, Sofitel Legend Metropole Hotel, had strong operating results in 2010. Revenue was up 25.6 percent on the back of the recovering industry, with average room rates rose to over USD200/night in the fourth quarter, versus the 2009 average room rate of USD189/night.

While Vietnam's stock market lagged its regional peers in 2010, earnings results from VNI's listed holdings were largely positive. An Giang Plant Protection JSC

An Giang Plant Protection JSC (AGPPS) is currently the market leader in the manufacturing and distribution of pesticide. Formerly a state-owned enterprise, An Giang imports ingredients from Syngenta, the world's top agricultural input producer. Its products are distributed nationwide via a strong and extensive distribution network with 23 branches, almost 500 wholesalers, 4,500 retailers and representative offices in HCM city and Cambodia.

The company benefits from Vietnam's strong agricultural sector and significantly low penetration of modern crop protection chemicals, compared to regional agri-product producing countries. Over the past three years, An Giang has seen a compound annual turnover and net profit growth of 31 and 45 percent, respectively. The company expects to outperform in coming years based on expectations the agricultural sector in Vietnam will achieve strong growth of 15 percent yearly due to the consistent increase in commodities demand. For FY2010, net income rose to VND352 billion, from VND328 billion the previous year. For FY2011, AGPPS has targeted revenues of VND4.7 trillion and net income of VND0.4 trillion, which would be year-on-year increases of 17 and 14 percent, respectively.

AGPPS is filing for listing on the Ho Chi Minh Stock Exchange which is expected to get final approval in Q2 2011.

VOF at 31 December 2010 held a 2.6% stake in VNM worth USD39.8m

Vinamilk (VNM)

Vinamilk is the leading dairy products manufacturer and distributor in Vietnam, accounting for more than 30 percent of the market. VNM offers a wide range of products including fresh and powdered milk, condensed milk, yoghurt, and other drinks. The company's distribution network covers all supermarkets, 220 regional distributors and 15,000 retailers nationwide.

For FY2010, VNM targeted revenue and net earnings of VND13,000 billion and VND2,700 billion, respectively. The actual results are expected to reach VND16,000 billion and VND3,500 billion, respectively, surpassing the target by 23.0 and 29.6 percent. FY2010 year-on-year earnings growth is approximately 34.7 percent. VNM expects to outperform the broader market in coming years based on expectations the dairy industry in Vietnam will achieve strong growth of 15-20 percent per year, due to the young population and the very low dairy consumption per capita, at just 9kg per year compared to 24kg and 60kg for China and Europe, respectively.

During Q4 2010, the VNM board approved a 2:1 share dividend and a three percent new share issuance to the public, to be voted on at the next EGM. The VNM share price rose significantly after the announcement. VNM traded at VND86,000 per share as of 31 December 2010, at a 12-month trailing PE of 8.7x. With the foreign ownership limit reached, large foreign-owned blocks can be sold at a 30-35 percent premium to the market price.

At 31 December 2010, VOF held a 1.4% stake in PVD worth USD7.8m, while VNI held a 1.9% stake worth USD11.1m

PetroVietnam Drilling Corp (PVD)

PetroVietnam Drilling Company (PVD), a subsidiary of state-owned PetroVietnam, is one of the largest oil and gas service providers in Vietnam, specialising in offshore drilling.

PVD was equitised in 2006 and listed on Ho Chi Minh Stock Exchange, where it is one of the biggest stocks, with a market capitalisation of USD590 million as of end December 2010. PVD is the largest domestic driller in Vietnam, currently owning four drilling rigs (three offshore, one in-land) and leasing three rigs. These seven rigs account for 60 percent of domestic drilling. In addition, PVD is also among the leading providers of other high-tech drilling services, and aims to increase market share by gradually replacing foreign contractors.

PVD expects to generate revenues of USD380 million and net profit of USD49 million in 2010, gains of 70 percent and 7 percent year-on-year, respectively. Despite high revenue growth in 2010, profit margin is expected to drop to 13 percent due to the launch of two new rigs, and the current oversupply of rigs in the region, that has left 20-30 percent idle and lowered the rig lease rate by 30 percent. Nonetheless, in 2011 PVD profit is expected to grow by 15 percent thanks to the launch of a fourth offshore tender assist rig. At 31 December 2010, PVS shares traded at VND53,000, equivalent to a P/E 2010 of 11.7 and a P/B 2010 of 2.4x.

At 31 December 2010, VOF held a 4.9% stake in DHG worth USD8.2m

Hau Giang Pharmaceutical (DHG)

DHG holds a leading position in the domestic pharmaceutical market with a five percent market share. Core products are antibiotics and pain-killers, accounting for more than 50 percent total revenue in 2009. However, medical supplements and traditional medicines are now diversifying the product mix.

DHG targets VND2.0 trillion in revenue and an after-tax net income of VND290 billion in 2010, which is 12.9 percent higher than 2009 in term of revenue yet 10.3 percent lower than 2009 in term of earnings, respectively. Earnings in 2009 were unusually high due to lower raw material prices from the beginning of the year as well as an extraordinary gain of VND35 billion from a change in accounting methods. FY2010 earnings are expected to reach VND320 billion, 10.3 percent above the forecast.

DHG plans to double capacity to over five billion units by starting construction of a new factory this year, due to complete by the end of 2012. The factory was built in a tax-exempt industrial park, which will save VND753 billion in tax costs over the next 25 years. DHG has one of the largest distribution networks in the country, consisting of 798 sales representatives, five branches, 44 sub-distributors and 44 company-owned retail pharmacies across 100 hospitals.

DHG shares trade at VND120,000 per share as of 31 December 2010, at a trailing PE of 10.0x and P/B of 2.5x.
