

Message from the Investment Manager

Dear Shareholders,

We are pleased to present the quarterly report for the VinaCapital Vietnam Opportunity Fund Limited (VOF), VinaLand Limited (VNL) and Vietnam Infrastructure Limited (VNI) for the three-month period ending 31 March 2011.

At the end of March 2011, VOF's NAV was USD724 million, or USD2.23 per share, compared to USD773 million, or USD2.38 per share, at the end of December 2010 (as per the interim result announced on 28 March). The 6.3 percent drop in NAV was due to the 7.2 percent devaluation of the VND announced on 11 February, and the subsequent drop of the VN Index. During the quarter, VOF announced the sale of a 23.6 percent equity stake in Halico to international drinks firm Diageo, for USD51.6 million in cash. The price represents an exit multiple of 5.3x, or an IRR of 67.4 percent over four years.

VNL's NAV was USD1.37 per share at the end of March 2011, up one cent per share from the end of December 2010 (as per the interim result announced on 31 March 2011). VinaCapital's total residential sales were USD20.9 million in Q1 2011, a significant increase over the USD7.4 million in sales recorded during the same period in 2010. For 2010 full year, USD73.8 million in contracts were signed. During 2011, at least two major launch events are planned for large-scale residential developments in Ho Chi Minh City.

VNI's NAV was USD214 million at the end of March 2011, or USD0.53 per share, a 6.9 percent drop from USD230 million, or USD0.57 per share, at the end of December 2010 (as per interim result announced on 28 March). During the quarter, VNI entered into agreement with Saigon Infrastructure Real Estate Investment JSC (SII), a holding company for the operating assets of CII, to buy USD6.7 million of convertible bonds. The bonds have a term of two years and an interest rate of 12 percent per year with a right to convert after the first year at par value.

Vietnam continues to fight high inflation with a series of fiscal and monetary tightening measures. There are indications that these policies have slowed the economy, as GDP growth over the first quarter was a relatively low 5.4 percent annualised. Stability has returned to the foreign exchange market, with the open market and official rates now trading almost at parity. With a time lag of about six months for monetary policy actions to be fully effective, we expect the CPI to peak at mid-year and begin to moderate from Q3 onwards.

Despite the challenging economic environment, the private equity deal environment remains positive, and several deals involving our funds are currently under negotiation. KKR's recent investment into Masan Group was Vietnam's largest ever private equity transaction. We hope to see more deals of this nature in the near future.

Very truly yours,

Don Lam

Market update

Capital markets and economy

The Vietnam Index lost 4.9 percent over Q1 2011, closing at 461 points after briefly reaching 522 points in February. In USD terms, the Index lost 11.3 percent, due to the 7.2 percent devaluation of the Vietnam dong in February. Meanwhile, the MSCI Asia ex-Japan and Emerging Markets indices saw gains of 0.9 percent and 1.7 percent, respectively.

Q1 2011 saw GDP growth slow to 5.4 percent year-on-year, from 7.3 percent in Q4 2010. Economic growth in Vietnam depends heavily on the availability of credit, and Q1 saw credit growth slow to five percent, in line with the government's full-year target of 20 percent credit growth.

F/X market stabilises as SOEs sell dollars

The foreign exchange market stabilised following the February devaluation and subsequent government actions to limit the trade in USD and support the local currency. The State Bank ordered major SOEs, who hold USD1.86 billion in foreign currency deposits at domestic banks, to sell USD in exchange for VND in order to support the domestic currency. At the same time, the refinancing and overnight lending rates were raised to 13 percent, up 100 basis points, to catch up to the market, where deposit rates are at 14-15 percent. The State Bank actions were successful, as the open market and official rates for the VND remained within 1-2 percent of each other well into April.

If macro stability depends largely on controlling inflation, however, there is still a way to go before the impact of the fiscal and monetary tightening is felt. Price hikes in March (of 30 and 15 percent for gasoline and electricity, respectively) caused the CPI that month to increase by 2.2 percent, and April inflation is anticipated at an even higher 3.3 percent month-on-month as the indirect impact of the price hikes works its way through to many consumer items in the CPI basket. Keeping 2011 inflation under 10 percent for the year seems untenable, and current estimates predict full-year inflation at 12-14 percent.

SSC mulls merger of two VN stock exchanges

In April, the State Securities Commission (SSC), Vietnam's stock market regulator, said it was considering a merger of the Ho Chi Minh City and Hanoi stock exchanges into a single stock exchange. The plan, considered reasonable given the country's small market cap to GDP ratio, was discussed at a conference on restructuring the stock market. In addition to the HOSE and HNX, Vietnam has a clearing and depositary service centre. The three government-run bodies have no central clearing platform, which result, among other inefficiencies, in higher trading costs than in regional countries. The conference discussed several solutions, from merging the two exchanges into a single bourse, to creating a holding company that would operate the two stock exchanges.

HCM City residential market slows; Hanoi heats up

Real estate market

Vietnam's residential real estate market in Q1 2011 was subdued due to tight credit and high inflation, as well as the normal slowdown in home buying after the Tet lunar new year holiday. Nonetheless, new launches in Ho Chi Minh City rose a substantial 64 percent over the previous quarter, with prices dropping an average of four percent quarter-on-quarter. Only five new projects started construction during the quarter, down 53 percent quarter-on-quarter. Most new buildings coming to market are in the affordable sector, although CT Plaza Nguyen Dinh Chieu, with 200 luxury units, was launched and attracted strong interest from buyers.

Hanoi saw substantial new supply during the quarter, some 8,200 condo units, equal to half of the total new launches in 2010. Secondary market asking prices were stable, and sales of high-end apartments were strong. Even though mortgage interest rates are up to 20 percent, capital continues to flow into real estate as a hedge against inflation and devaluation of the dong.

Retail sales strong despite high inflation

Retail sales growth was solid at 8.7 percent for Q1 2011, a good result given high inflation. Only sales of luxury goods at major shopping centres fell near the end of the quarter as the inflation impact began to be felt. Retail rents decreased slightly compared to the previous quarter. Some expected Ho Chi Minh City retail centre openings were delayed, including the centres at Bitexco Financial Tower and the Vista (District 2). Food and beverage, fashion and electronics remained hot sectors, with US-based Subway, a fast food outlet, opening its first branch in central Ho Chi Minh City. The chain targets 25 shops throughout Vietnam by 2015.

Hotels see boost from rising tourism numbers

Performance of the hotel sector in Q1 2011 improved considerably over the last quarter of 2010, due to increased numbers of international tourists and demand for conference and event facilities. Foreign visitors to Ho Chi Minh City in the first quarter numbered 900,000, an increase of six percent year-on-year. However, hotels that cater to a large Japanese clientele saw sudden drop-offs in business as a result of the earthquake and its aftermath. Overall, five-star hotel average room rates (ARR) showed a slight drop of 0.5 percent quarter-on-quarter, while ARR for three- and four-star hotels have increased 6.8 and 8.8 percent quarter-on-quarter, respectively.

The current high interest rates and inflation are expected to slow down new and under-construction developments. Nonetheless, the substantial demand for affordable modern housing will continue to drive the real estate market, as well as investors continuing to look at property to reduce currency and inflation risks.

Performance update

At the end of March 2011, VOF's NAV was USD724 million, or USD2.23 per share, compared to USD773 million, or USD2.38 per share, at the end of December 2010 (the interim result as announced on 28 March). The 6.3 percent drop in NAV was due to the 7.2 percent devaluation of the VND announced on 11 February and the related drop in the VN Index. VOF's share price also declined, falling to USD1.70 at 31 March, after reaching a 52-week high of USD2.00 in February. This represents a 23.7 percent discount to the NAV. At the end of March, the fund had cash and equivalent holdings of USD67 million, most of which is allocated for disbursement into listed blue chips and private equity deals, given the current low market valuations.

Halico proceeds to be booked in April

Sale of Halico stake to Diageo

On January 26, VOF announced the sale of a 23.6 percent equity stake in OTC holding Halico to international drinks firm Diageo, for USD51.6 million in cash. The price represents an exit multiple of 5.3x, or an IRR of 67.4 percent over four years. VOF will book the proceeds in April, not March as previously announced, due to the Halico AGM being postponed from March to April.

VOF portfolio (31 Mar 2011)

Performance update

VNL's NAV was USD1.37 per share at the end of March 2011, up one cent per share from the end of December 2010 (the interim result was USD1.36 per share, as announced on 31 March 2011).

The share price fell slightly during the quarter to close March at USD0.94, after briefly reaching 52-week high of USD1.00 in February 2011. The share prices of many Vietnam funds declined following the February devaluation of the VND and concerns over macro-economic stability. However, the devaluation had minimal impact on VNL's portfolio, as property assets in Vietnam are valued via a combination of VND, USD and gold. Furthermore, the sales prices of VNL residential assets (which are sold in VND) were increased in December and January in anticipation of the devaluation.

Residential sales and development update

VinaCapital's total residential sales were USD20.9 million in Q1 2011, a significant increase over the USD7.4 million in sales recorded during the same period in 2010 (The projects with ongoing sales are owned by VNL and VOF in a 75:25 ratio). For 2010 full year, USD73.8 million in contracts were signed. During 2011, at least two major launch events are planned for large-scale residential developments in Ho Chi Minh City. The first, Project Mars, is a 30-hectare residential development in District 9, in the same area that saw the successful launch and sale of a 53-villa development in 2009-2010. The second, Project Nile, is a major city-centre landmark mixed-use development in District 5, in Ho Chi Minh City's Chinatown commercial area.

In Nha Trang, the first three phases launched at the Project Venus township are now 95 percent sold. Sales for the fourth phase have just commenced. In Danang, residential sales at Project Niagara continue, with Phase 1-3 now 95 percent sold. At the Project Jupiter township on the outskirts of Ho Chi Minh City, phase 1 consisting of 332 villas officially launched in early April, with sales ongoing alongside construction of the island's infrastructure and landscaping.

Asia Pacific Property Awards

Shortly after the quarter ended, VinaCapital learned one of its luxury residential villa enclaves at Project Niagara was awarded two prizes as part of the 2011 Asia Pacific Property Awards in association with Bloomberg Television. The Bloomberg-sponsored awards are among the world's most prestigious real estate industry accolades. The villa project won in two categories: 'Best Golf Development' and 'Best Project Marketing.' The latter award reflects the success of marketing under the Vinaliving brand, Vietnam's first lifestyle-oriented residential brand.

Performance update

VNI's NAV was USD214 million at the end of March 2011, or USD0.53 per share, a 6.9 percent drop from USD230 million, or USD0.57 per share, at the end of December 2010 (interim result announced on 28 March). The decline is due to the February devaluation of the VND. VNI's share price declined one cent per share over the quarter, to USD0.36.

During the quarter, VNI entered into an agreement with Saigon Infrastructure Real Estate Investment JSC (SII), a holding company for the operating assets of CII, to buy USD6.7 million of convertible bonds. The bonds have a term of two years and an interest rate of 12 percent per year with a right to convert after the first year at par value. VNI's OTC holding, Nam Viet Oil, completed its capacity upgrade in January from 2,000 bbl to 5,000 bbl/day. The investee, representing 4.2 percent of VNI's NAV, has been granted a petroleum import-export licence, which along with the increase in production will allow the company to diversify its products to include gasoline, fuel oil, diesel, white spirits and solvents. Nam Viet plans to list its shares in the second half of 2011.

Ba Thien 2 Industrial Park has now completed compensation on 65ha of land, with the hand-over permit received from local authorities. The IP project, representing 2.2 percent of VNI's NAV, covers a total area of 308ha in Vinh Phuc province. Development of the land parcel handed over has begun. VNI holds an 80 percent stake in the Ba Thien 2 joint venture.

In March, investee Phuoc Hoa Rubber JSC (PHR), one of Vietnam's leading rubber companies, reported Q1 2011 results. The company earned revenue of USD28.7 million and profits of USD12.0 million, the latter already 41 percent of the 2011 full-year target. Another investee, Hanoi Electrical Equipment Mechanical Engineering JSC (HNEM), reported Q1 2011 revenue at more than USD490,000, a positive result as HNEM just started operations of its first hydropower plant in October 2010.

VNI portfolio by sector (31 Mar 2011)

VOF at 31 Mar 2011 held a 6.0% stake in PHR valued at USD8.0 million, while VNI held a 0.7% stake worth USD1.1m.

Phuoc Hoa Rubber (PHR)

Phuoc Hoa Rubber Company (PHR) is located in Binh Duong province in southern Vietnam. Formerly a state-owned entity, PHR was equitised in late 2007 and listed on the Hanoi Stock Exchange in June 2009. The company's core business is cultivating and preliminary processing of rubber latex for export. PHR ranks fourth among local peers in terms of rubber estates with an exploitable area of about 12,000ha.

PHR's annual output is about 20,000 tons of rubber latex, which will decrease 3-5 percent yearly until new trees enter production. Currently, PHR is developing a 9,184ha plantation in Cambodia, which will begin generating income in 5-7 years. Besides their core business, PHR has also invested in industrial park development and hydroelectric plants.

In 2010, PHR outperformed its targets with revenue of USD95.3 million and net income of USD23.9 million, year-on-year increases of 87 and 88 percent, respectively. This is attributable to strong demand from the international markets, particularly China. For 2011, the company targets revenue and net income of USD90.5 million and USD22.9 million, respectively, due to strong competition from Thailand and Malaysia.

VOF at 31 Mar 2011 held a 9.6% stake in QCG valued at USD11.2 million, and held USD6.7 million in 2-yr convertible QCG bonds with a 15-percent coupon rate

Quoc Cuong Gia Lai JSC (QCG)

QCG is one of Vietnam's leading residential real estate developers. Established in 1994 as a private company, QCG listed on the Ho Chi Minh Stock Exchange in August 2010 with a chartered capital of USD 28.7 million, which later doubled to USD57.9 million through new stock issuance.

QCG's residential properties target the low-to-mid range market, the segment expected to see the greatest demand over the next 5-10 years. The company has a total cleared land area in Ho Chi Minh City of 76ha, available for sale as lots or for residential development. The majority of QCG's projects are already under development, and will be the company's key earnings drivers over the next five years.

For the fiscal year 2010, QCG earned net revenue of USD35.2 million and net profit of USD14.7 million, respectively, for year-on-year growth of 120 percent and 140 percent. In 2011, the company expects to see a more conservative growth of 10 percent for both revenue and profit after tax, due to the high interest rates environment. In addition to real estate development, QCG also has substantial investment in rubber production and hydropower development.

VOF at 31 Mar 2011 held a 7.1% stake in Lam Thao worth USD3.4m

Lam Thao Fertiliser JSC

Lam Thao Fertiliser is the leading NPK fertiliser producer in Vietnam, with annual production of 800,000 tons. The company holds a 35-40 percent market share overall, with a near monopoly in the NPK and superphosphate fertiliser segments, given a significant capacity difference compared to the second-tier players. Lam Thao has over 50 fertiliser products marketed under their registered trademark and a strong distribution network of 100 agents nationwide.

Lam Thao effectively used the privatisation process to restructure itself from a state-owned company into a considerably more efficient business. In 2010, the company achieved net profit after tax of USD13.7 million, quadruple the 2009 figure and 91 percent above the yearly target, due to management efforts to restructure short-term debts and cut operating costs. In 2011, management targets earnings of USD14.3 million after tax profit, despite rising material costs.

Lam Thao has an aggressive investment expansion pipeline which includes a new fused superphosphate factory with a capacity of 400,000 tons yearly, and a new SA factory with a capacity of 800,000 tons yearly, both expected to complete by 2013. Total investment from 2010-2015 is expected to reach USD100 million, which will be financed largely by the company's retained earnings.

VOF at 31 Mar 2011 held a 5.0% stake in EIB worth USD37.0m

Eximbank JSC (EIB)

Eximbank is among the leading commercial banks in Vietnam with total assets in 2010 of USD6.2 billion. In recent years, the bank has diversified from its original focus of financing import/export operations to become a retail bank, with branches across major cities in Vietnam.

In 2010, Eximbank recorded revenue of USD174.7 million and net profits of USD85.7 million, up 42 and 60 percent year-on-year, respectively. Despite a low ROE ratio of 13.4 percent due to the high capital reserve requirement, the bank still delivered impressive growth in 2010. Total assets doubled, driven by a strong growth of customer deposits and lending of 60-65 percent, much higher than the sector average of 30 percent growth. At the same time, non-performing loans (NPLs) decreased to 1.4 percent from 1.8 percent the previous year, much lower than sector average of 2.5 percent.

Given the current high book value of EIB's equity (USD642.9 million) and CAR ratio (18 percent), Eximbank offers significant room for growth in the coming years. Its strategy to expand aggressively into the retail market, while maintaining a low NPL ratio, will help Eximbank continue to deliver robust growth.
